1. Compliance Status

Website Accessibility

We have implemented numerous measures to improve the accessibility of our website for people with disabilities. These include:

- Alternative text for images: All relevant images have alternative text to enable users with visual impairments to access content.
- Video subtitles: Our videos are linked to the YouTube platform, where automatically generated subtitles can be activated, supporting users with hearing impairments.
- Optimized font sizes and contrasts: We have largely optimized font sizes and color contrasts on our website to ensure better readability.
- Keyboard operability: Almost all functions of our website can be operated using a keyboard, facilitating use without a mouse.
- Focus indicators: Keyboard navigation is supported by clearly recognizable focus indicators.
- Skip links: Skip links are set for quick navigation within our pages where sensible and technically possible.
- Simple language: We strive for understandable language. However, due to the complexity of certain topics and products, especially in the business-to-business sector with technical goods requiring explanation, this is not fully achievable everywhere.
- Accessible forms: Our online forms are designed to be accessible and allow for problem-free use.

Known Limitations

Despite our efforts, the following limitations currently exist:

- PDF documents: Some PDF files are not yet fully optimized for accessibility, as they were partially provided by external companies.

- Contrast ratios: In a few exceptional cases, we cannot guarantee complete contrast optimization due to corporate design reasons or technical and economic disproportionality.
- Complex content: Due to the technical complexity of our products and services in the B2B sector, the use of simple language is limited in some cases.
- Configurators: For individually configurable products and technically complex applications, complete simplification is not always possible or economically viable.
